

DONNA BURKE

Donna Burke, renowned for her powerful Metal Gear in Concert performances, captivates audiences worldwide with her dynamic range and emotive delivery. A standout in video game and anime music, Burke's versatility shines through in haunting ballads and energetic themes alike, as exemplified by her notable work in the Metal Gear Solid and Final Fantasy series.

In 2003's Final Fantasy Crystal Chronicles, Burke narrated the game and sang the opening and closing songs, "Morning Sky" and "Moonless Starry Night," composed by Kumi Tanioka. She adapted the lyrics from Japanese into English and wrote new lyrics for the 2020 remastered version.

For 2009's Final Fantasy Crystal Chronicles: The Crystal Bearers, Burke performed "Kuule tää unelmain" and "Ephemeron," composed by Hidenori Iwasaki and Ryo Yamazaki. Sung in Finnish, "Kuule tää unelmain" added a mystical layer to the game's soundtrack, with Burke's ethereal, warm tones contributing to its haunting beauty.

In 2018, legendary composer Nobuo Uematsu commissioned Burke to write lyrics for "Choosing Hope" in Final Fantasy XV: Comrades, further solidifying her place in video game music history.
